

Help make Raymond Terrace a better place

Raymond Terrace Public Domain Plan — community engagement results

Project overview

Between February and March 2020 we talked to our community about their vision for the Raymond Terrace town centre. We collected over 700 responses online and face to face. These ideas and aspirations will form part of the bigger picture for Raymond Terrace — the Public Domain Plan. Thanks to everyone who got involved.

How we engaged

- Online survey
- Asset mapping
- Pop-up events
- Social storytelling
- Stakeholder workshops

What you told us

What's important to you in a town centre

A town that is easy and safe to move around with places to stop, connect and hang out.

What you love about Raymond Terrace

What you want more of

More shopping experiences, dining and alfresco options, green spaces, street trees and community gardens, and things for kids to do — like playgrounds, events and water play.

What could be improved

“The library is great!”

“Honeysuckle vibes along the river. More natural spaces.
More things for the younger adult age groups.”

“More events at Riverside Park
— it is such a beautiful spot.”

“More green spaces in town, bike paths, cultural attractions.”

“Nice seating, street art —
entice you to stay”

“More activities that bring the community together
(like Australia Day), with local products and businesses.”

BIG ideas! Many big ideas for Raymond Terrace involved more specialist shopping, cafes and alfresco dining, and more events and things to do, including markets and pop-ups.

“Tidy up the streets. Put more pride in the town”

“Pathway all the way to the bridge.”

“Love jacarandas!”

“Yellow brick road (or any other road surface/paint)
to connect the 2 shopping centres.”

More seats at interesting places.
This could be a public art project.
